

ITC Announces Regional Asia-Pacific Base Supporting Client-Centric Global Expansion

Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia (July 1, 2008) - ITC, specialists in secure networking services, have today announced the opening of a new office in Malaysia to support their global client base and growing demand within Asia. The new office will serve as the regional headquarters for existing clients as well as a platform for the company's ongoing expansion across the region.

In direct response to customer's needs, the opening of the Malaysian office, in Kuala Lumpur, will allow ITC to continue to execute and deliver global enterprise solutions to clients, while utilising localised support in each specified region. Along the principles of the Follow the Sun model of management, ITC will be providing local consultants and services with the benefit of the same time zone, local knowledge and accessibility; lessening the need for remote 24x7 support- thereby reducing customer costs.

ITC's present client base stretches globally with services in over 100 countries; and on-going managed security projects in progress in many more. Tom Millar, Managing Director, ITC remarks, "We've been successfully managing and supporting global engagements from our London headquarters, but our expanding customer base throughout Asia now calls for a personalized presence. This will allow us to combine our wealth of experience in delivering high end services with the added benefit of offering localised solutions and hands on support. Opening this office shows our commitment to further growth and affords us closer working relationships with current and future clients in this region."

The Malaysian headquarters' technical consultancy will be headed by Anthony Ling, the latest addition to ITC's hand-picked armoury of consultants. Anthony brings with him a wealth of multi-national experience in IT security and infrastructure management. His education in the US coupled with his international management qualifications and strong background in IT project management, security and network operations gained working for global corporations will offer invaluable hands on presence to ITC's existing customers within Asia.
